Grades 1-12 suspended

HNC accreditation loss imminent

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
The Accreditation Committee of the State Department of Education has placed the Hancock North Central Attendance Center (grades 1-12) on probation and will drop the school from its accredited list if deficiencies are not corrected by June 30.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said Friday he has received notification of the systems probationary status from J. Melvin Waters, supervisor of secondary education in the State Department's Division of Instruction. Waters said in his letter dated March 29 the decision on probation was made by the Commission's Executive Committee. "The school district does not have enough funds to correct the deficiencies listed by the accreditation committee and loss of accreditation appears evident if more funds are not forthcoming," Randolph said.

Hancock North Central will be prohibited from competing with other accredited schools in interschool activities such as football, basketball, track and band if accreditation is lost, the superintendent elaborated. "Our athletic and band programs at HNC will be totally eliminated in August if we lose our accreditation," lamented Randolph.

Text of the Commission's letter follows: "This letter is to inform you that the application for accreditation for the Hancock North Central Attendance Center, grades one through 12, has been presented to the Executive Committee of the Commission on School Accreditation."

The decision of the Executive Committee was to place Hancock North Central Attendance Center on probation and to inform them that they will be dropped from the accredited list if improvements are not made to correct the deficiencies in the school by June 30."

Randolph commented, "Each time I mentioned the possible loss of accreditation during the recent bond issue campaigns, bond issue opponents contended the threat to our accreditation was a propaganda move."

He said the school district has approximately $600,000 in surplus funds which are not nearly enough to correct the deficiencies at the school.

In regard to acquiring federal and state funds to aid the school in retaining its accreditation, Randolph explained, "Public law 815 allocates the only federal construction funds a school may receive. We have applied for these funds every year and have not yet been successful in attaining them."

"Indian reservations usually receive priority for these funds," the superintendent complained. The superintendent said $240,000 in 50-percent matching funds from the Educational Finance Commission is available for construction. "...the only state funds the School Board can acquire to assist in saving the school's accreditation."

Randolph also disclosed Friday he will recommend the Board proceed immediately to construct a special education center for the mentally and physically handicapped with $250,000 to $300,000 of the $600,000 in surplus monies.

Financing of a special education center at an estimated cost of $214,336 was sought in a proposed school bond issue several months ago that did not receive a required 60 percent approval from voters.

Randolph explained the estimate for the center has increased due to inflation.

Randolph said he will also recommend the Board utilize $15,000 of the surplus monies to construct new roofs at

Centralization, Yes; Consolidation, No

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate and Hancock County School Boards, in an unprecedented joint meeting Saturday, dismissed the idea of consolidation and moved to centralize some services duplicated by the two systems.

County Board Member Johnny Banks brought the consolidation issue to a head by posing a direct question on the matter to City Board President Virginia Gex.

"How would your board feel about consolidating the two school boards and building one centralized high school south of I-10," Banks asked Ms. Gex. "Centralization is a better and more immediate approach to our mutual problems than consolidation and would bring about greater savings," Ms. Gex responded.

The city board president noted, however, she was speaking for herself. "I can't answer for the board because we have not discussed consolidation—they will have to speak for themselves," Ms. Gex added.

"Consolidation is something none of us can say a great deal about without considerably more investigation and study," stated Maurice Singleton of the Bay board.

Newly-elected Bay board member Betty Diboll said, "I wouldn't speak either for or against consolidation at this time—we should first study the wishes of the people."

Singleton expressed strong opposition to the consolidation idea without an unquestionable mandate from the people.

"These school systems belong to the people in these districts. We're talking about giving away their property without their authority. I stand staunchly against consolidation until the people themselves have expressed their wishes on the matter," Singleton continued.

"There are still too many unknowns in consolidation," Singleton said, adding, "We're not even sure that consolidation wouldn't cause a rise in taxes."

Banks pressed the matter, seeking a unified position one way or the other from the eight school board members present.

"The people want to know if we are going to consolidate these two systems into one system—the move has to start right here at this table," Banks insisted.

"If we all agreed right here to consolidate, people from both districts would be lined up at the Courthouse before it opens Monday morning to file for an injunction against the move," interjected County Board President Woodrow Ladner.

In response to a question of how many students might be in those lines at the Courthouse, Woodrow Ladner conceded there probably would be none, but hastened to add, "They would be the property owners and parents who control the purse strings of these two systems."

"I think we can safely say we are not going to consolidate," the county board president summarized.

The county board, still in regular open meeting Saturday morning with the Bay board members as guests, unanimously passed a resolution authorizing its superintendent to meet with the city superintendent during the ensuing month on the general issue considered at the meeting for centralization-special education and transportation, particularly.

The Bay board members concurred informally in the county action, and Four injured in head-on

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Four Louisiana residents were injured in a two-car accident Friday morning on Hwy. 603 just south of the Bayou La Batre bridge.

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol reported traffic on the highway was blocked for some 30 minutes due to the accident which occurred about 9:30 a.m.

Albert Krankey, 22, of Bay St. Louis, driving north on Hwy. 603, collided head-on with a Chrysler proceeding south on the highway at its intersection with Rainer Street.

Two married couples from Jena, La., traveling in the Chrysler were all injured and taken to Hancock County General Hospital, according to Patrolman Raburn Sukwood of MESP.

The injured include John White, 26, and Kathy White, 24. Both sustained multiple contusions and abrasions, according to Harry Gilmore, hospital administrator.

White was admitted to the hospital for observation, and his wife was released after treatment, Gilmore reported.

John Myers, 26, sustained contusions and abrasions, was treated and released. His wife Alberta Myers, 25, sustained neck injuries and was transferred to Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi for treatment by a neurosurgeon, the hospital administrator noted.

Krankey and a passenger were both unharmed, Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Ronnie Peterson said.

about the lack of compensation insurance, and at that time I was working for Merchants Insurance Agency," Thriffley continued.

"The Council ordered the insurance in September (1977) from Treutel Insurance Agency. In October I changed jobs, joining Treutel Insurance Agency," Thriffley said.

David Treutel, president of Treutel Insurance Agency, Inc., allowed Thursday, "If you check the records you will note that Treutel Insurance Agency's amount of insurance coverage for the City of Bay St. Louis is the same as it had been before the creation of the City Council."

"On August 7, 1977, we were given a break-down from the City on all of its employees, to work up a Workmen's Compensation plan through an assigned risk pool, which our firm did and Mayor Larry Bennett signed the application on September 26, 1977 for the insurance," Treutel explained.

"The policy came back a month later on October 25, 1977," Treutel said after checking his records. "Mr. Thriffley became associated with our firm after October 1, 1977, sometime after the 1st," he noted.

"On the workmen's compensation, our firm received less than $400 and the claim volume is tremendous," Treutel commented.

A check of the records at Bay City Hall shows the firm of Merchants Insurance as agent for fidelity bonds for the council, dated July 1, 1977, a bond in the amount of $50,000 each on the mayor and city clerk, and $25,000 each for the five councilmen.

The youths were turned over to the Hancock County Youth Court according to Chief Williams.

The Bay Police department received a call from the owners of four vehicles parked in the Senior Citizens parking lot Monday night with a flat tire on each.

Three were also slashed on auto and bicycles at North Bay Elementary. Salt was placed on the flat tires of two Senior Citizens' cars and one fire vehicle, Williams noted.

Chief Williams said Bay Police detectives conducted an investigation.

Local 624 pickets Singley

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Some 30 members of Operating Engineers Local No. 624 (AFL-CIO) manned a picket line outside Singley Construction Company's gas pipeline division near the Waveland Resort Inn on Hwy. 603 Friday morning.

Union members were reluctant to discuss issues which brought on the picket action, and company management refused to discuss the matter.

A sole picket sign displayed by one of the engineers read: "Singley Construction company paying substandard wages. We seek no recognition. We have no dispute with any other contractor on this job." R. H. Byrd, the local's business manager, said Friday, "We belong to an international union of operating engineers. I have no other comment, speak to my attorney Charles Sykes in Gulfport."

Byrd later confirmed the action was an informational picket line designed to call public attention to the union's demands.

When asked if the operators are on strike against Singley Construction, Gulfport attorney Charles Sykes, said, "I have no comment." The attorney adamantly refused to disclose any information concerning Singley and the operators.

A man located within what was described as management headquarters by union members and described as the spokesman for management by others in the building emphasized, "We have no comment."

"I have no name and I have no comment," the management spokesman said in declining to identify himself.

"We want better wages," blurted out a member of the group picketing Friday.

joined in asking the superintendents to set another joint meeting date in approximately one month.

"This meeting this morning indicates to me a dedicated interest by everyone here in the welfare of our school children," said Bay Superintendent J. D. McCullough.

"We have taken a positive step forward in meeting the immediate and pressing needs of both systems," McCullough continued.

"Let's not worry about consolidation, it will take care of itself in due time. But consolidation won't take away these problems. These needs we are talking about here today are essentials which must be taken care of now whether or not we consolidate down the line," McCullough elaborated.

County Superintendent Terry Randolph said he does not feel the State Legislature will move in the foreseeable future to consolidate any of the state's school systems.

The boards were joined at the public meeting, in addition to the superintendents, by County Board Attorney Joseph Gerz, County Assistant Superintendent Mike Necaise, and Principal Thad Haskins of Hancock North Central.

Absent were County Board Member Monvel Cuevas and City Board Member James Ginn.

County Board Member Louie Ladner acknowledged the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors' earlier role in bringing to two boards together. He offered to appear before the Chamber to keep that group apprised of the joint efforts.

When asked about the bond, Thriffley replied, "At Merchants I didn't sell any Bonds to the City that I know of."

The bond insurance is now carried by L.L. Kergosien and Son, since Merchants Insurance is no longer in business.

At the council's meeting on March 20, four independent insurance agencies in Bay St. Louis were given unanimous approval to do a survey of city insurance coverage.

The independent agencies are Hancock Insurance, Coastal Insurance, L.L. Kergosien and Son, and Treutel Insurance Agencies.

E.J. Marengo appeared at the meeting as spokesman for the agents who were attending a Coast-wide independent agents meeting.

In making the proposal before the council, Marengo said, "We have the experience to do the survey, at no cost to the city. It is part of our job, we do it all the time."

The proposal, according to Marengo, would stipulate each year an agency would serve as "agent of record" on a rotating basis. The premiums would be split four ways on an equal basis each year.

In a letter dated Nov. 24, 1978, all councilmen, the mayor and city clerk, in connection with the September 30, 1978, year-end audit by Moore and Powell, certified public accountants, signed the following disclaimer:

"I have no interest in any firm from which the city purchases goods or services; I do not deal with the city for purchase of any goods or services; I do not know of any illegal nepotism; and I have no knowledge of any contingent liabilities of the City of Bay St. Louis that have not been previously disclosed by our attorney."

Local attorneys, in informal review of the applicable statute, have classified the law as "very broad."

The statute states:

21-39-1. Municipal officers and employees not to be interested in contracts.

It shall be unlawful for any officer or employee of any municipality to enter into or to have or to own any interest or share, individually or as agent or employee of any person or corporation, either directly or indirectly, in any contract made or let by the governing authorities of such municipality for the construction or doing of any public work, or for the sale or purchase of any materials, supplies, or property of any description, or for any other purpose whatsoever, or in any subcontract arising therefrom or connected therewith, or to receive, either directly or indirectly, any portion or share of any money or other thing paid for the construction or doing of any public work, or the sale or purchase of any property, or upon any other contract made by the governing authorities of the municipality, or subcontract arising therefrom or connected therewith. In addition to the penalties prescribed by law, any person violating the provisions of this paragraph shall be removed from the office or employment then held by him, and shall not be eligible to succeed himself.

No officer or employee of any municipality shall be personally interested in the profits of any contract with the municipality, or in any contract with any person, firm, or corporation operating any railroad, street railway, gas works, waterworks, electric light or power plant, heating plant, telegraph line, telephone exchange or other public utility, operating within the territorial limits of such municipality, nor in the profits of any such contract. No such officer or employee shall accept or receive from any such person, firm, or corporation operating any such public utility in such municipality, any frank, free ticket, free service or other service whatever upon terms more favorable than are granted to the public generally. However, such prohibition of free transportation shall not apply to policemen or firemen in uniform, nor shall any free service to municipal officials heretofore provided by franchise or ordinance be affected hereby. No elective officer of any municipality shall be in the service of any person, firm, or corporation having contractual relations with such municipality during his term of office. A violation of this paragraph shall constitute a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, the person violating same shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred fifty dollars and, in addition, shall be removed from office.

Nothing contained in this section shall prohibit any bank from being selected as depository of the municipality for the reason that an officer or employee of the municipality is an officer or stockholder of such bank, when such bank has been selected as such municipal depository in the manner provided by law and has duly qualified as such depository as required by law.

L&N offers training

The Family Lines System, operators of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad which crosses southern Hancock County, will present a training program in Bay St. Louis April 18 and 19 on handling of hazardous materials emergencies.

Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin said the program is being coordinated through the state and county Civil Defense offices.

The six-hour course is slated from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each night at the Bay St. Louis American Legion Home on Greenmeadow Road.

Open to the general public, the course is designed especially for fire, police, emergency medical, civil defense and other emergency response personnel.

The course will be held in Biloxi April 18 and 19, and in Gulfport April 18 and 19.

Railroad operating personnel are receiving similar instruction to properly assist the emergency forces when an incident occurs in the transportation of flammable or toxic materials.

A hazardous material specialist will conduct the six-hour course in the two sessions of teaching time.

Instruction will include identification of various hazardous materials, recognition of general hazards associated with each one, pre-emergency planning, and a practical exercise in the handling of such emergencies.

The Family Lines System developed the training program in cooperation with Western Kentucky University. It is the first in-depth program of its kind offered by any railroad system in the United States.

No CETA problems in Hancock County

The governmental CETA program seems to be under fire all over the State and Nation in recent months.

From what we can gather there are approximately 50 CETA program workers in Hancock County. About 25 for Bay St. Louis and 25 for Hancock County.

These CETA Program workers are doing various types of jobs in all type of governmental agencies. In order to get paid they have to work.

We are very happy that we haven't heard of any violations of the CETA Program in our communities, and the elected officials whose responsibility these workers come under should all be commended on doing their job properly.

Hancock North Central.

"The EFC matching funds, explained the superintendent, can only be used for construction of classrooms, therefore I'll recommend the Board use approximately $450,000 for the center and the roofs and use the other $150,000 to match EFC funds and build classrooms at HNC.

"This is not nearly enough money to correct deficiencies cited by the state," he reiterated.

Improvements needed, explained Randolph, at Hancock North Central Elementary and deficiencies listed by the accreditation commission include:

—A need for seven classrooms—second, third, and fourth grades; two for educable mentally retarded; one to replace an elementary classroom located within the high school, and one to replace a trailer.

Most of these classrooms are deficient due to overcrowded conditions. The State Department of Education requires classrooms be limited to enrollments of 27 and average daily attendance of 24.

Overcrowded classrooms at HNC Elementary accommodate from 27 to 30 pupils per class, said Randolph.

Other deficiencies cited by the accreditation commission include:

—Administration offices and teachers lounge grossly inadequate.

—No teacher workroom.

—HNC Elementary does not provide adequate space for physical education and recreation.

—Roofs leak.

—Outside play area inadequate in terms of drainage and landscaping.

—A road passes through the middle of the school.

—In general, a good education program is not provided due to lack of facilities.

At Hancock North Central High School, 12 classrooms are needed to meet accreditation standards, explained Randolph.

Currently, two classrooms are in the new cafeteria, three in the old cafeteria, one in the old teachers lounge, one in a former bookroom, one in a storage room, one in a football ticket booth, four in trailers and one in another book room, the superintendent explained.

The accreditation committee requires a classroom encompass a minimum of 600 square feet.

Other deficiencies at the high school noted by the accreditation committee include:

—No teacher work room.

—Leaking roofs.

—Teacher's lounge grossly inadequate.

—Lack of adequate facilities for assemblies, physical education classes, health services and laboratories.

—School site not well landscaped and drained, causing unsafe and unhealthy conditions.

—School not architecturally barrier free; that is, it does not provide ramps and rails for the handicapped.

—Bookkeeping room grossly inadequate.

—Foundation faulty in one temporary.

classroom (trailer.)

—Driver education room inadequate.

—In general, there is inadequate space for the educational program.

Though Randolph feels Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy Elementary schools are "temporarily safe" in regard to accreditation, the superintendent noted Gulfview needs four classrooms.

Murphy needs two classrooms and restroom facilities in one elementary wing.

"We just don't have adequate surplus funds to satisfy these accreditation deficiencies," reiterated Randolph.

"Those persons who opposed the bond issued did not understand the seriousness of exlss caused by a lack of facilities," Randolph remarked.

"During the past six years enrollment in the Hancock County School District has increased by 508 students, during the same time period only eight classrooms have been constructed in the school system," the superintendent complained.

"My plans now are to recommend the Board of Education adopt a resolution to be presented to the Board of Supervisors to satisfy the education needs of Hancock County School District children," the superintendent disclosed.

"The supervisors and the school Board can only construct and satisfy these educational needs if voters desire quality education for their children," Randolph declared.

A proposed $3,300,000 school bond issue went before voters in the school district twice during 1978 and was defeated, once due to error in publication notices and once by failure to attain 60 percent voter majority approval of the proposal.

"The bond issue sought construction of a new high school south of I-10, and a special education center and classrooms and other buildings at Hancock North Central Attendance Center.

Former Texas Governor John B. Connally will be the featured speaker during the 1979 Gulf Coast Concord Conference at the Diamondhead Country Club in Hancock County April 27-29, according to Mississippi Congressman Trent Lott.

Lott, the conference chairman, said Connally and other local, regional, and national Republican leaders will participate in the program.

The Concord Conference is designed to train, motivate, and organize young people into the political process, Lott added.

Attendance is limited to 150 persons, and will cost $175 per person including meals and lodging. Further information may be obtained by calling Evelyn McPhail at 256-1421.

Pilgrimage tour reporting lauded

April 4, 1979

Dear Mr. Cuevas,

I want to thank you and Mr. Hecce for your wonderful cooperation in printing news stories about the Bay-Waveland 1979 Pilgrimage Tour.

Your coverage stimulated community interest and told something of the histories of the homes.

I think we had some beautiful homes on the tour this year, and an altogether successful Pilgrimage.

We certainly appreciate all the help you gave us.

We plan to use the news stories in a scrapbook and enter it in a contest. If we win, I will let you know.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Nell (Betty) Jeffrey

Jushaway praised for extra efforts

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am a 75-year-old Senior Citizen. I belong to the Day Care Center here in Bay St. Louis.

Last Tuesday we were invited to sing Gospel songs on Channel 13. We had to get up early.

One of our staff told all of us old people not to cook breakfast, she would have breakfast cooked for us at the Center.

I have heard of heroes getting medals. Well, this fine person who had walking pneumonia got out of her bed and with the help of her four little boys cooked breakfast for all of us.

She deserves an award. She works very hard. She was left a widow with four small children when her husband was killed.

All of us at the Center love you very much, Rosine Jushaway - you are the rock of ages.

You are always there to give one of us a helping hand. If there were only more people like you.

We all thank you very much. May God bless you and your family.

Grant sends two to penitentiary

By RICH ADAMS

Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant sentenced two men to imprisonment in Parchman State Penitentiary on a variety of criminal charges including armed robbery during the first week of the April Hancock County Circuit Court term.

Thomas Lee Kremer was sentenced to three concurrent five-year terms in the state penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to charges of armed robbery, aggravated assault, and grand larceny (auto).

Billy Gene Enger was sentenced to two three-year terms in the state penitentiary by Judge Grant after he pleaded guilty to two charges of burglary.

His sentences will also run concurrently.

A trial involving Charles Edward (Chuck) Depreo, found guilty of the April 8, 1978 murder of Janice Ladner by a circuit court jury in January, was continued to a later undated date.

Depreo's trial, conviction, and aggravated assault were handled by Judge Grant, pending a State Supreme Court ruling on the earlier murder conviction.

In other court proceedings, Harry Smith, charged with burglarizing and setting fire to Bay St. Louis Junior High School in July, 1978, was found not guilty on the burglary charges.

He still faces armed and dangerous marker. The Board of Trustees of the Department of Archives and History at its October 27, 1978 meeting approved a state-funded marker for Publius Rufus Pray.

Pray was born in Maine in 1793, the son of Ebenezer Pray and Deborah Robinson. Educated in Winchester County, New York studied law in the State of New York with Hon. Samuel Nelson, Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States.

In 1820, P.R.R. Pray married the daughter of General David Learned. Pray and wife Maria came to Mississippi. Here he served in the House of Representatives, 1827-29; president of the State Constitutional Convention, 1832; and was elected Judge of High Court of Errors and Appeals, 1837.

The children of P.R.R. Pray and Maria Learned were George Washington Pray; Cornelia N. Pray who married Edwin F. Russ - they had four children between 1850 and 1856 who were Maria, Mary, Jane and Samuel Russ - Theodosia Pray, and Rufus Otis Pray.

Other related lines of Pray in Hancock County were Robert Otis Pray, Washington Daniel Pray, Henry Otis Pray, Hubert Earl Pray who settled in McComb, Mississippi and is my father.

P.R.R. Pray was my great-great-grandfather.

Pray and Maria held a Spanish land grant at the mouth of the Pearl River and they reclaimed this after it became part of the American territory.

Another land grant of Pray and Maria was on the Bay of St. Louis. A record in the courthouse deeds of Hancock County show part of this lot was given for a right of way for the County Road which led from the Bay to Pearlington, the road later named Main Street in Shieldsborough for public uses such as the Court House building and other public buildings.

Judge Pray died at his homestead in 1840.

It was the decision of the Department of Archives and History in Jackson that Judge Pray was a man of statewide importance as well as a Judge of Hancock County and the most deserving location for a historical marker of P.R.R. Pray would be on the Courthouse lot which was the lot to which Judge Pray and his wife Maria at one time held title.

The Board of Supervisors upheld this decision. The descendants of Judge Pray are asking that any persons related to P.R.R. Pray contact the Hancock County Historical Society, P.O. Box 1340, Bay St. Louis.

There will be an unveiling dedication program in May for the persons who would like to receive an invitation. The public is also invited.

You will be sent a written notification of the designated date and time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dee (Freka) Pray Hamilton

burglary charges which will be heard in the July Circuit Court term.

Judy Johnson pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was sentenced to one year in prison, which was suspended by Judge Grant.

She pleaded guilty to stealing a shotgun, and told the judge she had three small children at home.

In addition to the suspended jail term, Judge Grant levied a $500 fine in the case and placed the defendant on five years' probation.

District Attorney Albert Necaise made a motion of nol pro, meaning the state will not prosecute, in the case of Allen Joseph Blanchard.

Blanchard, presently confined to a Louisiana prison for a "long period of time" on other charges, faced three charges of grand larceny and one charge of burglary in Hancock County, according to Circuit Court Clerk Henry Ota.

Others scheduled for trial in the April term, tentative trial dates and the charges they face include:

April 9 - Fritz Garcia, one charge of rape.

April 11 - Eddie Beale

R for your child's safety

"Although it's obvious that many of the 'fun things' we see in playgrounds can be hazardous to children, many parents neglect to properly caution their youngsters against these dangers," says Dr. Albert H. Domm, child safety specialist and former medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Dr. Albert H. Domm

He cites the following as some of the chief dangers of the playground.

(1) Swings: Be sure the child is secure and balanced when sitting on a swing. Also teach him to watch for flying swings when he is not on them. Many children receive serious head injuries when struck by swings. (2) Sliding boards: They are no place for horseplay. Toddlers should not be allowed to ride them under any circumstances. (3) Merry-go-rounds: If a child slips off, serious injury is quite likely. When they are old enough, youngsters should be taught to sit upright, grasping the handrail with both hands.

(4) Monkeybars: Accidents will happen on these, since even the most coordinated child can slip. The careful parent should caution against all showboating and encourage the budding gymnast to practice in a place where he has access to mats.

Which Dog For You?

Weimaraner

With its short gray, silver-tipped coat; gray nose, and startling blue-gray or amber eyes, the Weimaraner is one of the most distinctive members of the sporting breeds. The Gray Ghost, as this quiet-moving dog is often called, stands about 23-27 inches high at the shoulder and weighs up to 90 pounds.

They do call for lots of training time while they are young. Weimaraners can be stubborn and they need a firm hand in the beginning, but they are intelligent and responsive to training. These handsome, powerful dogs should have regular exercise.

Hancock, Pearl River land titles originated with Spanish grants

During their occupation from 1779 to 1810, the Spanish authorities were eager to get settlers located in the big, almost uninhabited areas known as West Florida, of which Pearl River and Hancock counties, and St. Tammany Parish were a part.

For this reason they were most liberal in their granting of land to settlers, letting them have the land at no cost if they would meet certain conditions.

To hold their land grants, settlers were required to live on, and to cultivate a reasonable amount of the land for not less than three years.

After the three years were up, settlers were entitled, at no cost, to Spanish land patents or deeds.

As a result of this generous policy of the Spanish government, many Anglo-Saxons from Southern United States and from the Atlantic seaboard settled along and back from Pearl River in Spanish territory.

The size of a land grant to a settler depended upon the size of the family, the number of slaves owned, and the number of cattle and other livestock brought in.

After the first three years were up, if the settler had complied with Spanish law and regulations, he could apply for more land for a number of reasons; among them, an increase in the size of the family or in the number of slaves, or in the number of cattle and other livestock owned.

Along about 1790, due to pressure from the leaders of the Catholic Church, the Spanish government began to require from settlers an oath of allegiance to the Catholic Church.

Practically all of the settlers who were coming into this area were protestants. Most of the latter arrivals refused to become members of the Catholic faith and so could not qualify for land grants.

As a result, these settlers went on up Pearl River, north of the 31st degree of latitude, the line between the United States and Spain, and settled in what is now Marion County, Mississippi. Emigration into what is now Pearl River and Hancock counties almost ceased.

The Spanish authorities were eager for settlers in their new territory. After a short time, with no new settlers moving in, they went back to their policy of admitting all who came without religious restriction.

When the religious restrictions were removed, the tide of emigration began again and steadily increased until 1811 when the United States occupied West Florida.

During the Spanish occupation, settlers were offered attractive prices for pine tar for "His Catholic Majesty's Ships." His Majesty, the King of Spain, required that all cypress trees that could be used for spars and masts for ships be set aside for "His Majesty's Ships."

The burning of tar and the hewing out of tall cypress trees for ship's masts were the first commercial uses of forest products in what are now Pearl River and Hancock counties, and St. Tammany and Washington Parishes.

Later on pine trees of the right size and length were also reserved for masts and ships. Apart from cattle raising and farming, the production of tar became the main occupation of the settlers along Pearl River for many miles.

Some time before 1800, the date uncertain, a good sized tract of pine timber north of what is now Cybur was leveled by a hurricane.

Some of the finest timber that ever grew was blown down. In time the sap part of the trees rotted off, leaving the fat pitch pine heart of the trees "ripe" for the star kilns. A green pine tree is not suitable for the production of tar. When blown down or deadened, the heart of the pine tree goes through a process of several years of "ripening" or changing into a wood rich in pine tar products.

The wood was then placed in stacks in the woods, called kilns, for burning, with the tar flowing out into containers placed properly around the kilns.

Another product of this process was charcoal, which later on was sold in New Orleans and other population centers.

H. V. Henley, now deceased, who gave me most of the information for this dissertation on the old days, said "My grandfather and another man, according to an old document, were burning tar before 1850 when saw mills and cotton gins were erected at Gainesville and Pearl River, and before there was a ready market for other forest products."

To show the importance and volume of the tar business, a man named Whitchard, who has descendants in this area now, brought a crew of men up on Black Creek, near Cybur, to make barrels for the shipping of tar.

The production of tar from the great hurricane area near Cybur became such a big business that settlers cut a flat road, suitable for flat boats, Black Creek.

The flat boats would be loaded with products, and poled down the stream to Pearl River.

Another important forest product was cypress shakes, used for roofing. Cypress root boards, called shakes in the old days, were split out and then smoothed with drawing knives.

Many of the finest old homes in New Orleans in the old days were covered with these cypress shakes, which had been shipped down Pearl River on flat boats and then loaded on schooners bound for New Orleans.

Also shipped down river on the old time flat boats were oak staves, barrel heads and hoops for making barrels.

Baskets made of this oak stave and filled with produce were sold, after they had been unloaded, to the saw mills in the river towns.

In the old days there were buyers for all these products at Gainesville and Pearl River.

After the steamboats began to ply up and down the river, these products were poled on flat boats to landings on the river and there transferred to the steamboats.

The term "poled" means that the flat boat was controlled by poles in the hands of the crew as it floated down stream.

Settlers began to raise much cotton along Pearl River as far up as Jackson. Growers along the river would load their cotton on flat boats and carry it to the gins at Gainesville and Pearl River.

After gins were built up river, the bales of cotton would be hauled on flat boats to the cotton buyers at the lower river towns.

After the steam boats began to operate, most all cotton was hauled on them.

Old men now living remember seeing steamboats going down the river loaded with bales of cotton. Before the railway came through in 1884, the river was the only means of transporting cotton, cattle, etc. to the big markets.

In shipping down the river, lightweight, or low density, logs would be selected for the flat boats. Enough of these logs would be bound together to carry a big load.

As it would take weeks to make the trip to market, a kitchen and living quarters would be erected on the flat boat so that the men would have a place to live on the trip.

About the only evidence left of this in the history of this section are old names.

Tar Landing on Pearl River, southwest of Cybur, got its name from the fact that much tar was stored there to be shipped down river.

Flat Landing, nearby, was another place for river shipment. It is interesting to note that part of the equipment for Jackson's Army on its way to New Orleans was shipped down the river on flat boats from Tar Landing.

The Black Creek Flat Road was ideal for such traffic. It was of easy access by roads over which tar and other products could be hauled. It had low banks.

Logs destined for the mills down river were hauled to the banks of Black Creek and found there in rafts to await the rise in the river, which would back the water up sufficiently to float the logs.

When the water rose high enough, the logs would be turned loose to start on their way to the mills.

questions and answers

Q. In a few weeks, I have to go into the hospital for a gall bladder operation. Can you tell me what Medicare hospital insurance does not cover while I'm in the hospital?

A. Hospital insurance cannot pay for personal convenience items you request, such as a TV, radio, or telephone in your room; private duty nurses; extra charges for a private room, unless it's needed for medical reasons; the first 3 pints of blood you receive in a benefit period. Hospital insurance also does not pay for doctors' services. Medicare medical insurance covers doctors' services. You are also responsible for the $160 hospital insurance deductible.

Q. I recently received treatment for an injury. My doctor sent in the claim for the Medicare medical insurance payment. Will I get any kind of notice telling me what Medicare paid?

A. Whenever you or a doctor or supplier sends in a medical insurance claim, Medicare will send you an Explanation of Medicare Benefits. This notice shows what services were covered, what charges were approved, how much was credited toward your $60 deductible, and the amount Medicare paid. If you have any questions about the notice, contact the carrier that sent you the notice or a social security office.

VALUE FORUM realizing the worth of your possessions

Appraise Your Properties With Care

By Dexter D. MacBride, ASA

Executive Vice President

American Society of Appraisers

Americans today have more money to spend and there is a dazzling array of goods which to spend it. The age of technology has given us every conceivable electrical appliance. Americans are travelling more, bringing home art, artifacts and collectibles from all parts of the world. With these acquisitions, the personal property contents of homes and apartments are more valuable than ever before. Therefore, more people are calling upon the services of an appraiser to evaluate their possessions and special kinds of properties.

We know that a person's house is one of the things upon which he or she places the highest material value and, at some time, it will be appraised (mortgage, improvement, loan, sale). Do you realize the contents of your house or apartment are likewise of considerable value? Oftentimes people have received inadequate compensation following a theft, fire, flood, etc., because of the lack of a certified appraisal to support their insurance claims.

In many instances mis- understandings and lawsuits can be eliminated by securing a professionally documented appraisal report. Therefore, when you select an appraiser, choose a person who has been tested and certified in his (or her) field of appraising. A nationwide certification program of testing and monitoring is conducted by the multi-disciplinary American Society of Appraisers to designate appraisal competency. (Remember, no state licenses, tests or supervises Personal Property appraisers.) The Personal Property appraisal classification includes: residential contents, antiques, gems/jewelry, fine arts, collectibles, etc.

When selecting an appraiser, ask the following questions: 1. What is your appraisal educational background? 2. What specific experience do you have with the kind of property I wish to have appraised? 3. Are you a member of a professional appraisal society? 4. Do you hold a special designation? 5. Is that designation based on successfully completing written exams? 6. How long ago did you take the exam? 7. The Ole Pastor Says

PULPIT POINTS
By DR. S. WALKER
IS YOUR CHURCH COSTING TOO MUCH? This depends, of course, upon what the money is spent for.

But historic and Biblical Christianity is a positive movement based upon the practice of sacrificial giving. See John 3:16.

Are you one of those who chronically complain about the cost of expediting the ministry of your church?

"All I hear at my church is about the constant and mounting need of money," is the complaint of some church members. Anything worthwhile involves cost and sacrifice. If your church is doing nothing, then it should cost nothing!

The story was once told to me of a chronic complainer in his church who went to one of the church's leaders and whined about what the church was costing him. The sober-minded and thoughtful church leader answered:

"I want to tell a story," he began, "right out of my own life. Some years ago a little boy was born in my home, and from the time he was born he cost me money."

I had to buy food, clothes, and medicine, and after a while, toys and a little shaggy puppy.

Then, when he started to school he cost even more. When he went off to college, the expenses continued to mount up even more. And, while there, he started ogling out with girls once in a while, and you know how much that cost!

"Then, in his senior year, my boy took sick and died - and, you know, he hasn't cost me one red cent since that time - not one red cent."

A live growing boy cost money! I believe he is worth the cost. A live growing church doing worthwhile things, like witnessing for Christ, winning souls at home and around the world, cost lots of money, it's true!

But dead churches cost very little...and really cost nothing! It is important that you cheerfully give of your means to keep your church alive and vital! We should give...that others may live...eternally!

I refuse to be timid about encouraging people to give of their money to support the Lord's cause.

When I think of how He loved me, and freely gave Himself a sacrifice to redeem my soul from death and damnation, God forbid that I ever apologize for teaching others what the Bible says about giving generously and joyfully of their money to support His work.

When God's people fail, for whatever reason, to amply support the scriptural work of the churches, only the Devil is glad.

"THE BLOODING"
By WILLIAM DARRID

Sudden terror strikes a sleepy prairie town in William Darrid's novel. "THE BLOODING," to be published as a Bantam Original April 1.

In the summer of 1944, war has touched the little cattle town of Crowley Flats, Kansas, taking husbands, sons and friends.

But these simple, hard-working people are soon caught up in their own private war, the horror of a sudden, unexplained rabies epidemic.

The disease brings fear with it, fear that turns neighbor against neighbor. It leaves the town under a virtual state of siege, with no one daring to step outside his door, or act to save his own life.

Set against this background is the story of the dramatic relationship between a boy and his father, and of the grim act of courage the boy must perform to come of age.

SAS IN THE CHAIR EXERCISE BOOK

A program of "sitting" exercises specially created by Sweden's leading physical culturist, Dr. Folke Mosefeldt, for exclusive distribution as a Scandinavian Airlines (SAS) inflight brochure, proved so much in demand that Bantam Books has expanded the fitness program into an original paperback book published in March.

The SAS IN THE CHAIR EXERCISE BOOK, by Dr. Mosefeldt and professional writer Mary Susan Miller, develops the program into 99 pages of full-color, cartoon-illustrated exercises - many never before published - that are designed to be done anywhere by anyone who sits.

Since Dr. Mosefeldt first conceived of the idea for an in-the-chair fitness program during an 8-hour flight to Stockholm, response to the exercise booklet for passengers has surpassed the expectations of SAS executives who found demand for the brochures greatly exceeded the supply of half a million copies.

The original SAS brochure was requested by over 70,000 individuals and hundreds of organizations, including AT&T, Exxon, American Hospital Association and others.

WHY EXERCISE WHEN YOU SIT?

Some of the adverse effects that sitting for long periods of time can produce in the human body include:

-The heart slows down, less work is done and therefore blood circulates more slowly enabling deposits to form in arteries; high blood pressure may ensue; the groundwork is laid for coronary thrombosis, and the heart weakened.

-Muscle pumps throughout the body, whose job it is to force blood back up to the heart, relax and weaken, thus increasing chance of varicose veins and swelling of extremities.

-Inadequate flow of blood, the oxygen carrier, may cause stiff, aching or atrophied muscles.

-Pressure from continual body weight on the base of the spine from sitting may cause lower back pain, poor digestion and muscle spasms.

-Prolonged inactivity of shoulders and neck may trigger "dowager's hump," muscle tension and drying of body joints.

-Deprived of adequate bloodflow, the brain becomes foggy, and poor circulation can lead to dizziness when standing after long periods of sitting.

-Emotional and physical vigor dissipate after long sits

Getting In Shape

If you're one of the eight million Americans who are running on a regular basis or one who plans to join the growing number who are now running, there's a new booklet that will interest you. The booklet is called "Shaping Up for the Long Run." It tells in 24 absorbing pages why adopting a lifestyle that includes exercise and proper diet can mean a longer, more enjoyable life. The long run is measured in miles or in years.

"Shaping Up for the Long Run" opens by dispelling ten common myths about exercise and the relation between diet and food. These are the myths that make getting in shape sound so difficult, stressful, even dangerous.

The booklet continues with an explanation of why running, hiking, biking, swimming, working with stationary bicycles or rowing machines are all excellent choices for anyone who has decided to shape up.

To order a free copy of "Shaping Up for the Long Run" write to: Mazola Corn Oil Dept., Box 307, Coventry, CT 06230.

Garden Clubs horticulturist offers April planting hints

By MRS. C.H. WOOD

APRIL GARDEN GUIDE
April is not only the prettiest month in the garden, but it's also the busiest. Spring bulbs, wildflowers and flowering trees and shrubs reward us with their beauty.

strong new shoots that will provide most of next year's blooms. Remove suckers growing below the graft of established rose bushes. Continue to dust or spray regularly with malathion and a fungicide such as Benlate or Captan to control insects and diseases. Diabud Hybrid Teas and Teas to one bud to each stem. Continue to plant potted roses. Plant caladiums, elephant ears and other bulb-like plants, such as cannas, achimenes, calla lilies, daylilies, spider lilies and tuberous. Continue to plant gladioli at two week intervals. Warm season grasses, such as Bermuda, carpetgrass and centipede should be seeded in April or May. Prepare the seedbed properly. Condition the soil properly and work in a slow-release fertilizer. Repair worn or disease-damaged areas of Bermuda, St. Augustine or zoysia with sod that is available at nurseries. Dig up old turf and set new sections level with surrounding turf.

As flowers of daffodils, hyacinths and other spring flowering bulbs fade, cut the flower stalk back to the ground. Do not cut the foliage until it has died back naturally. Fertilize beds with a high-phosphorus fertilizer. Follow label directions. After danger of frost is past, sow seeds of cockscomb, coleus, marigold, verbena, mimosa, and nasturtium. Set out plants of ageratum, marigold, petunia, and salvia. Apply mulch around newly set trees, shrubs and vines and renew mulch on established plants. Compost, pine straw, or pine bark are good mulching material. Fertilize fruit trees if you haven't done so. Use a low-nitrogen fertilizer, such as 5-10-10, and apply according to label directions. Sow seeds of herbs outdoors. Some of the easiest to grow from seeds are basil, chives, dill, oregano, parsley and sage. Move houseplants outdoors for the warm months. Avoid placing in direct sunlight.

Watch for insects and disease problems. Water often enough to keep soil moist. Check hanging baskets often, as they tend to dry out more rapidly than pots. Before the berries begin to form, mulch strawberries with straw or pine needles to keep the berries off the ground. Sow seeds of beans, cucumbers, corn, okra, black-eyed peas, crowder peas, squash and other warm season vegetables. Put out plants of tomatoes, peppers and eggplants.

Echoes

Father Kelly, public relations official for St. Augustine Seminary, shares this optimistic thought: "For every sixty seconds that we are angry, we lose a whole minute in which we could be happy."

Pass Christian writes: "We enjoy the Sea Coast Echo." Artist Nell DuComb, whose paintings will hang throughout this month at the City-County Public Library reports the Plantation "Laurelwood" she has depicted in oils was built in 1900 by Francois Saucier and bought in 1949 by J.F.H. Claiborne. The home was demolished after vandals had rendered it in deplorable condition. Considerable research preceded the painting of this subject. Claiborne plantation where sea island cotton was once grown.

Commander and Mrs. Frank Baggatt of Gulfport were recent guests of the City-County Public Library. Commander Baggatt serves as chaplain at the Gulfport Naval Home.

Some 11 colleges competed in the tournament recently held in Hattiesburg, with Northwestern Louisiana University taking first place, Louisiana Tech second, and Southeastern Louisiana University third.

Lagarde, a freshman at Southeastern Louisiana University on a tennis scholarship, played fourth spot for her team in the tournament singles competition. She reached the singles finals, ultimately losing 2-6, 3-6 to Susette Prieto of Northwestern University, Natchitoches, La.

Lagarde and her partner, Fatima Gabalji, were also eliminated in the doubles finals.

Boston Marathon born on narrow dirt road

It was precisely 12:15 p.m., April 19, 1887, when Tom Burke scraped the toe of his boot across the narrow dirt road in front of Metcalfe's Mill in Ashland, Mass.

"That's the starting line, gents," he said, and called the field to order. He read out the numbers: 15 men answered, and the Boston Marathon was born.

J. J. McDermott, one of six New Yorkers in the field, won. But he paid the price: Stopping five times en route, losing 10 pounds, he declared at the finish, "I doubt I shall ever again run in a marathon race."

Eighty-one Boston Marathons have come and gone since McDermott uttered those words, and thousands of runners have been undaunted by his resignation. The Boston Marathon, oldest foot race in the United States, has become a mecca for marathoners.

A special ETV program celebrates that "something special" which every Patriots Day attracts thousands of runners eager to endure 26 miles and 385 yards for a bowl of beef stew and the satisfaction of having completed the famous course.

"The Boston Marathon" can be seen at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

It will be anchored by Bud Collins, nationally known sports writer and sportscaster; Kim Prince, WGRH-TV Boston producer who has run the Marathon; Kathy Switzer, one of the first women runners to break down the Marathon's all-male barrier; and Larry Rawson, Boston stockbroker and avid runner.

From its starting field of 15 back in 1887 to a record 4,212 last year, the Boston Marathon has grown, maintaining its place as America's premier long-distance race. There's no cash prize for winning it, no overwhelming sponsor to commercialize it. The mystique of the Boston Marathon is its low-key tradition, unique in the world of sports.

THE FARM
AT A&P

TAKE A FRESH LOOK AT PRODUCE

Where do you go for the freshest fruits and vegetables? To the farm, of course. So A&P brings The Farm to you. Somewhere in the world, it's harvest time. And that's exactly where A&P's eagle-eyed produce buyers are right now—gathering the pick of the crop and getting it rushed to The Farm in your nearby A&P Store. Their demanding standards and their ability to buy in large quantities means you get exceptional value whenever you buy produce at A&P. So come take a fresh look at The Farm at A&P. And get to know the Farm Manager. He's so proud of his fruits and vegetables, you'd think he grew them all himself and he'll help you find exactly what you need to be equally proud when you serve it to your family.
